Welcome Message

Abdul-Basier Dramat Chief Executive Officer

Good morning esteemed guests, respected faculty, proud families, friends, and especially our exceptional Graduands.

Today, we celebrate a significant milestone in your lives, the culmination of your hard work, resilience, and commitment. On behalf of Cornerstone Institute, it is my honour to welcome you to this special occasion, your graduation ceremony.

Graduation marks both an ending and a beginning. You are transitioning from the structured environment of higher education into a world that is, today, more dynamic than ever before. This new landscape, both here in South Africa and globally, is being reshaped by rapid technological advancements, the influence of artificial intelligence, and ever-evolving demands for creative solutions. It is a world of opportunity, where careers may shift quickly, and adaptability has become a prized skill.

Here at Cornerstone, we anticipated these changes. We understand that our graduates must go beyond the academic, you need to be thinkers, doers, and agents of change. Through your education, we have fostered not just knowledge but resilience, adaptability, and a strong ethical foundation. To meet the needs of this fast-paced world, you have learned to approach challenges with integrity, compassion, and respect, values we believe are indispensable.

The CEO of Naspers, a leader in innovation, said that innovation and adaptability will define our continent's future and that it's not just about being technologically proficient, it is also about having the courage to lead, to keep learning, and to move forward even when the path isn't clear. You embody these qualities, and they will serve you well as you enter careers that may take unexpected turns, where problems do not always have clear solutions, and where your ability to think independently and creatively will be invaluable.

As Cornerstone graduates, you are prepared to engage with this world of change, to bring fresh perspectives and innovative thinking to the challenges before you. Your education has given you more than a degree; it has equipped you to lead, to drive positive change, and to contribute meaningfully to South Africa's development and beyond.

So, as you step into this new chapter, do so with confidence. The road ahead will have its challenges, but you are prepared to meet them with insight, purpose, and resilience. Cornerstone Institute is proud to have played a part in your journey, and we look forward to witnessing the impact you will make as professionals, leaders, and change-makers.

Congratulations to each of you!

Biography of our Graduation Speaker

Marcel Golding

Chairperson of Cornerstone Institute's Board of Directors

Marcel Golding was born in Johannesburg, educated in Cape Town, and graduated from the University of Cape Town.

Described as part of the 1976 generation, Marcel worked initially as a tutor and lecturer at UCT before joining the trade union movement, eventually becoming Deputy General Secretary of the National Union of Mineworkers. He was also one of 20 COSATU leaders who were elected to the first democratic parliament in 1994, after spending a year before that as the speechwriter for Nelson Mandela during the 1993-94 period, leading up to the general elections. After three years in parliament, he decided to leave to found together with a union colleague the first publicly traded union investment company on the JSE called HCI. He was the Executive Chairman for 17 years, during which time he also led the establishment of ETV, South Africa's first independent TV station. He left HCI and ETV in 2014 and now runs a family-owned business, which includes both private and public investments. Among those are Rex Trueform, Texton Property Group, and Vunani Financial Services. He played a role in rescuing Cornerstone Institute when it faced some challenges in its early years, some 10 years ago. He is the doting father of two children, Erin and Liam, who are his pride and joy.

Institutional Crest and Values

Different from the branding logo of an institution, the crest is the coat of arms of a higher education institution, and functions as its official seal. It represents the core values, mission, and identity of the institution. Therefore, while a branding logo may change from time to time, the coat of arms remains the same as long as possible and will only be reviewed when the institution makes a fundamental change to its values, mission, or identity.

Accordingly, in preparation for Cornerstone's 50th year and as the foundation for the next half-century of our existence, the board of directors in 2018 resolved to review the institutional crest. After much careful consideration of appropriate symbols, our new crest was launched at the graduation of 2020 as a declaration of our mission and values as a scholarly community.

Historical Context

Cornerstone was originally founded in 1970 on the Cape Flats as the Cape Evangelical Bible Institute (CEBI). The institution provided theological education for unqualified black and white pastors during apartheid when black South Africans were excluded from universities. Therefore, we are deeply rooted in South African history and local contexts as a transformative institution.

Historically, Cornerstone's ethical ethos has emphasised developing leaders with professional integrity and a desire to serve others. We continue to be committed to our core identity as a scholarly community, and our foundation of faith-based values.

The Symbolism of Our Crest

The crest reflects our core identity through our motto, expressed in English and Nama (institutional mission), our symbols of an open book (knowledge and learning), a wreath of wheat (growth and healing), a bowl of flames (leading together for transformation) wreaths of wheat, and the banner (legacy).

The Nama translation of our motto reflects that we want to learn from African communities and contribute to an African voice. We also seek to align ourselves with the broader process of building knowledge systems on the continent to affirm the proud place of our African voice in the world.

The open book represents human endeavours to acquire the knowledge and capability necessary to change the world. In the symbol, one side contains text, representing existing knowledge as a foundation for learning, while the other side is blank, symbolising the pursuit of new knowledge and the creation of a new world.

The wreath of wheat symbolises social, ecological, and historical rootedness and the growth and achievement that come from hard work and struggle. It also represents the belief that valuing people and healing the world is the ultimate purpose of knowledge and learning.

The bowl represents the tradition of collective leadership and community that characterises our African heritage. It symbolises our commitment as a scholarly community to shared leadership in the service of human dignity and social justice for diverse communities.

The flames represent enlightenment, truth, and rebirth. They symbolise the human becoming that flows from reflecting on, acquiring knowledge towards, and enacting justice.

The banner with the year of establishment represents the contributions of all the people and organisations that built Cornerstone into the proud institution it is today. We are grateful for their legacy as we continue the work.

Graduation Symbols

A graduation ceremony is the pinnacle of any student's studies. Years of effort by students and staff all culminate in this. The institution confers qualifications on students to show that they have completed their studies and are ready to join their scholarly and professional communities and to change the world. Graduation ceremonies follow age-old traditions and include symbols that represent achievement.

Academic Dress

Officials, lecturers, and students wear special academic attire at the graduation ceremony, consisting of gowns, hoods, and caps. Each of these has distinct colours and designs that indicate the unique roles of those who wear them.

Graduating students, the graduands, wear black gowns and square-shaped caps, called mortarboards. The mortarboards represent the trowels that bricklayers use in construction – a symbol of hard work.

Lecturers wear either black or red gowns, with hoods of assorted colours. The distinct colours of the hoods represent the discipline specialisations and the levels of qualification that the wearers have obtained. Faculty members with South African doctoral degrees traditionally wear red gowns. There are institutions which signify a doctoral qualification in other colours.

Hoods come from a practice from centuries ago, when learned clergy still walked from town to town to teach without reward. They wore a hood so that people could place food and gifts in it to sustain the teachers. The registrar drapes a hood over the shoulder of a student after they receive their qualification – this shows that they now join a community of learned servants of the people.

At Cornerstone, we continue to use gowns, hoods, and mortarboards to show our commitment to selfless service to others, and to change the world for the better.

Academic Procession

The academic procession refers to the ceremonial entrance of the office bearers and academic staff of the institution into the hall. The members of the procession represent the scholarly community that confers the qualifications. The procession is led by the academic president and chairperson of the board, followed by the chief executive officer, the executive dean, the registrar, the deputy dean of Student Development and Support, and the president of the Student Representative Council. The academic managers and faculty members (lecturers) follow behind them.

Nkosi Sikelel' iAfrika

The academic procession enters the hall while the original version of the prayer Nkosi Sikelel' iAfrika, composed by Enoch Sontonga in 1897, plays. The prayer song holds a significant place in the struggle for freedom of several African countries, including South Africa, and was taken up in several national anthems, including our own.

Capping

Students receive their qualification through capping, where the Cornerstone President touches the student on the head with a graduation cap to indicate that the qualification is conferred. This is the formal action of conferring the qualification.

When a student comes forward to receive their qualification, they enter from the ceremonial area from one side, are invited by the Executive Dean, move to the centre to be capped by the President, and exit on the other side, draped with a ceremonial hood by the Registrar.

Merit Awards

Teaching Awards

The Teaching Award recognises teaching excellence in line with Cornerstone Institute's values. All permanent and adjunct faculty who lectured during the relevant period are eligible for nomination.

Two award categories per semester are presented at every graduation:

- Teaching excellence in the contact (on-campus) delivery mode
- Teaching excellence in the distance (online) delivery mode.

Academic Award

The Academic Award is presented to the highest achiever in each type of qualification in a particular graduating cohort. To be eligible for the award, students must complete their qualification in the minimum time required.

Against All Odds Award

The Against All Odds Award recognises a student who overcame unusual challenges to qualify for graduation. Eligible candidates must have demonstrated courage, determination, and integrity, and be in good standing with the Cornerstone community.

President's Award

The President's Award is presented to the graduating student who best represents Cornerstone's core values. Eligible candidates are not necessarily top academic achievers but must have demonstrated consistency of character, active involvement in the broader community, support of fellow students, and spiritual, social, and academic acuity.

National Anthem of South Africa

*Nkosi Sikelel' iAfrika Maluphakanyisw' uphondo lwayo Yizwa imithandazo yethu
Nkosi sikelela; thina lusapho lwayo*

Morena boloka sechaba sa heso O fedise dintwa le matswenyeho, O se boloke, o se boloke Sechaba sa heso Sechaba sa South Africa South Africa!

*Uit die blou van onse hemel
Uit die diepte van ons see
Oor ons ewige gebergtes
Waar die kranse antwoord gee*

*Sounds the call to come together
And united we shall stand
Let us live and strive for freedom
In South Africa, our land!*
